

Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Re: Is making your own leaders worth the trouble?

Author: : osprey

Date: : 2013/10/15 7:19:34

URL:

pcray.....awhile back you wrote that thhe knot you have trouble with is the line leader connection. Have you ever tried the braided connections with the shrink tube? Also i just bought a Cortland 444sl DT 4wt that has a loop built into , oddly , one end of the line , that goes right through also. And a nail knot covered with a little flex material too. This is a cool subject.