

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Brown Trout Migration in Poconos

Re: Brown Trout Migration in Poconos

Author: : wildtrout2

Date: : 2013/10/15 16:59:51

URL:

I noticed you didn't mention water temps. Did you check it? That's the first thing I do when I get to a stream. I keep notes on this stuff so I can compare results from one season to the next.

I fish several Pocono wild brown trout streams, and I have found that water temp is the most important variable. I've fished very good streams too early in the season and caught nothing because the water was too cold for the browns. Then, I'd wait a couple weeks when the stream warmed up and had 30-40 fish days. I don't think it's a spawning issue. Those brown trout are in there!