As for the recreational harvest vs the commercial harvest of stripers, the harvest is much higher in the recreational fishery.

1. shame.

2. yeah, as i said, about 3 x times the size. without the ability to help the bait - which is what the migration follows, we anglers have to take responsibility for our actions.

for 8 plus years i've seen Canal anglers piss and moan about decreasing numbers of 'big fish' whilst them and their buddies take two a day of anything over 30".

i think some old hands are coming round to the idea of a 'slot' though - two between 22" to 26" and thats it, but the sponsors and charters want to keep landing the 40/5lb+ fish that are nearly all female breeders....
