

Subject: : Tips and Tricks

Topic: : Polish Nymphing

Re: Polish Nymphing

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2013/10/17 5:15:00

URL:

Quote:

gaeronf wrote:

Oh, I am familiar with the "European" methods of fishing (If you even want to discriminate names based on leader length). If your leader is over 40' it is not Polish. Fun fact, the Czechs got it from the Polish (I believe) and those are short leader styles of nymphing. Spanish and french style nymphing utilize a long leader (I would consider over forty feet pretty long). These methods you mention I do find to be effective in certain situations. However I believe that it is essential you can balance high-stick nymphing (more on that term later), indicator nymphing, and other types of fishing, properly.

The thing is, is I typically have my rod high in the air, so I call it high-stick nymphing. Helps to avoid the confusion (and tax on "Euro" products).

gaeron has it, not surprising since he is/was a comp angler.

Here is a great primer for rigs, flies and methods of Euro fishing:

http://www.bluequillangler.com/site/e..._nymphing_techniques.html

Also, I agree with gaeron that, to be a complete angler, one should become proficient in all techniques. By far, the best book I have ever seen is "Dynamic Nymphing" by George Daniels. He discusses in detail nearly all methods of nymphing.

<http://www.paflyfish.com/smartsection...ing-by-george-daniel.html>