

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : 7'6" 3 weight versus 8' 4 weight length rods

Re: 7'6" 3 weight versus 8' 4 weight length rods

Author: : afishinado

Date: : 2013/10/17 5:45:31

URL:

Quote:

Big-Bass wrote:

gfen,

With all due respect to your reply, I do ask a lot of questions about rods/reels without the actual purchase of equipment. I have purchased items in the past and currently only fish a few outfits...a Sage ZXL 5 weight that I bought on here and a Lamson Litespeed and a cheaper 4 weight that I like. I have acquired some other gear on here through trading/purchase because I would like to advance in the sport and have options, but I guess you just look at that as a waste of time. If you do not like my posts, simply avoid reading them rather than insult me for asking questions. I was unaware that asking questions led to useless statistics on how often or what I post about. But thanks for being so helpful to the original question with your awesome response. Perhaps there are others on here that could share more worthwhile info.

Good response BB.

I consider Gary to be the diva of the site. You may have guessed that by looking at his avatar photo. But as gaeron posted, he's pretty knowledgeable FFer.

Interestingly, Gary is also a gear junkie, but mostly ~~junky~~ retro, stylish type stuff or modern replicas thereof.

Feel free to ask or tell about gear or anything else FFing.

As you wrote above, if someone doesn't like it, they can click on to another thread or forum subject.