

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : Toothy Critter Success Thread

Re: Toothy Critter Success Thread

Author: : Fishidiot

Date: : 2013/10/18 11:16:12

URL:

Quote:

JVenezia wrote:

I just got my new 9' 8wt. and a decent selection of appropriate flies.

Now the big question is where to go first? Anyone throw me somewhere in Lancaster area or close surrounding area.

Any info. is greatly appreciated.

Anywhere in the Susquehanna River from Holtwood Dam upriver.

To find particular spots you'll need to pay your dues and put in your time. With some time on the water you'll get a feel for different parts of the river and what constitutes good muskie habitat. As Paco said, check the PFBC website warm water stocking list and just get out there and fish!

I'd say you can look back about 3-4 years on the stocking list as a typical river muskie in PA reaches 30" in about 4 years. Waters that have not been stocked in the last decade are much less likely to have a good population of these fish in my experience. The Susky has been stocked for decades and continues to get a good number of fingerlings.