

Subject: : Fly Fishing Locations

Topic: : Montana Advice

Re: Montana Advice

Author: : Tups

Date: : 2013/10/18 12:51:14

URL:

You might try the St. Joe River in the Idaho panhandle. It is a Wild and Scenic river surrounded by National Forest. Access is easy and the streamside camping is free. You want to fish above the town of Avery. I fished it first wk in September and did very well. Regs are C&R for wild cutthroats. I didn't catch anything but cuts. River also has Bull Trout, which I believe are more active in the fall.