just to update on my earlier post.. found the fish in lorimer on this week's outing... all in one pool where i guess they were stocked.... still getting used to where to look for stockies... they were in the slow, deeper water of a back-eddy with a darker bottom and some cover. Guess that makes sense... but hard to flyfish them out of that kind of water.

anyway, got one and cooked it up for dinner - it was fantastic, very clean and fresh tasting. Family loved it.
