Thanks Dave, Fished 10/25/13, Valley Forge PA....not much more than the occasional trout sucking down what i thought to be an occasional BWO or midget pattern but i wasn't able to connect with anything on the dries...Weather this morning was brisk in the upper 30's to low 40's by noon fish activity increased as well as the temperature. Often i found my self fishing on my knees to keep from spooking the fish, patience was the name of the game today. I first heard about this site in late Sept. from a guy on valley who told me to check it out... I'm no expert but from what I've been told and experienced as far as valley creek goes if nothing else seems to work go to the weenie!
