

---

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Fall Fishing

Fall Fishing

Author: : Swattie87

Date: : 2013/10/27 21:46:39

URL:

Hehe.

I was gonna post this in the Warmwater forum, but with a water temp of 44 yesterday that didn't seem right. Found myself searching for water Saturday and landed on an upper section of the Swatara.

Funny thing is I'm pretty sure I caught this fish in April 2012. It was approximately 16" now and in April 2012 I caught a 14"ish fish from the same run. I remember that fish vividly because it had a snelled bait hook in the right corner of its mouth that I removed when I caught it. The hook had been in there for some time and the fish's lip had already developed some scar tissue around it. This fish had an obvious hook injury to that same right corner of its mouth. I can't be 100% sure because I didn't take a picture of the fish in 2012, but it appears C&R may work on Fallfish too. They're tough fish for sure. I had the 2012 fish out of the water for a good 60+ seconds working that hook out and it still gave me a bath when I released it.

Attach file:

---

 10-26-13 (1).JPG (90.34 KB)

