Great Story and refreshing. I'm glad that you take pride in catching a fallfish and don't consider it a trash fish. They're great sport and take dries exceptionally well. I'm sure that the early black stones bring them up i the swattie in March when most stocked streams are closed to fishing. I believe that they are a native fish to this area. I'm not postive on that one. Maybe someone here is. The biggest I ever caught was a confirmed 21.5 inches.
