

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : Is anyone else seeing Brookies Spawning

Re: Is anyone else seeing Brookies Spawning

Author: : Chaz

Date: : 2013/10/28 10:38:39

URL:

Last time I was at camp, two weeks ago, we didn't see any spawning brookies, in fact we didn't see any brookies except ones we caught. We did see a bunch of fish at a tail out swimming around and causing a disturbance on the surface, presumably in pre spawn activities.

This past weekend in the Loyalsock drainage I didn't see any fish on beds, but I wasn't where I'd expect to see them. As for the Poconos, they should be in spawning activity and it should be in full swing. If it was over, you be catching fish.

Redds without fis on them means those pairs have spawned or the site was unsuitable.

We need rain to clear the streams of leaves.