If the walnut gauge is at 300 and dropping I would def head up. The smaller streams will be fishable by then and the larger streams may be later in the day depending on what other precipitation comes tomorrow.

Ideal for me for the big streams is when it's around 150, but it can go from 300 to 150 in a matter of a few hours.

So like Pat said... there you go. May fish and may not by tomorrow.

Is it better to head up and get skunked, or sit at home and do nothing?
