Desperate times bro 😊

A green weenie and all?

I am proud to say, while I did resort to some pseudonyming...I do not have a single green weenie in my box. I used to have a San Juan worm. I have no idea what happened to that. Of course, I have little room to say much since I have a box full of eggs I use for steelhead. They're not any different really.

One thing I got a kick out of yesterday is that I have been fishing for salmon and steelhead since mid-September and not had the 2wt out any. Let's just say I had to readjust a little early in the day.
