Hard to say how many of them are actually out there. Your point of, "they didn't get that big on accident" is valid. My landed 30" browns are all lake runs. I have 2 24" fish from the river in the other thread and hooked and lost several much larger. I will just say that i love fishing places where the potential exists. I fish large streamers to target large fish, but at the end of the day....the fish choose you, you don't choose them.
