Is fly fishing just for folks with nothing more important to do? Or does it let you do important things, after you have taken the time to go fly fishing?

Define important. We prioritize based on need. I've had stretches where I've fished more, and stretches where I've fished less depending on what has been important at the time. Some of the guys I fish with are closer than family when we're fishing. We can go months without talking and pick up right where we left off when we do go.

Being in the middle of a "dry spell" as far as quantity of time fishing, I think the few times I've gotten out in the last several months have more value to me than when I go fishing every few days.

I have important things to do. Fly fishing is one of them.
