Is fly fishing just for folks with nothing more important to do? Or does it let you do important things, after you have taken the time to go fly fishing?

Please add your thoughts.

When I was younger, I used to fish regularly with my Grandfather and brother. Later it was my brother and I. Then, for a long span of years, I did not touch a rod.

A friend of mine had moved to the area from Illinois and asked where to fish near us. I took him riding around, showing him the different lakes near us. Dan decided to try fly-fishing and convinced me to try my hand. This started my journey back into fishing.

What I've learned from getting back on the water, is just how relaxing it is and how much I was missing. I make it a point, with my wife's encouragement, to get out a minimum of once a week, even if it is only for a short time.

Rearrange your schedule and priorities to allow yourself some time on the water. You will feel much better for having done so.
