most times you are fishing them in inlets around rocks the keel style or dumbbell eyes (mine) invert the hook keeping it out of the rocks and seaweed. I weight the shanks with 0.30 lead and add a dumbbell eye to mine so the hook flips. done some weedless style to, if I am fishing back channels in the sedge islands.

One thing I have learned is to add a hook in the middle. stripers have a tendency to grab an eel in the middle and swallow whole. the flies pictured will be getting a 2nd hook.
