
Subject: : Stream Reports

Topic: : Pyramid Lake, Nevada-November 6

Pyramid Lake, Nevada-November 6

Author: : keptrain

Date: : 2013/11/7 22:19:31

URL:

I fished Pyramid Lake Nevada for about 5 hours on November 6th. Air temperatures varied from the high 30's to the low 50's. The water was very clear and felt to be in the 50's. Winds were variable, but mostly calm. I fished an area called Wino Beach, which drops from about 3 feet deep to 25 feet within 20 feet of the shore line. I set up my step ladder on the shelf and it was underway. I was throwing chironomid nymphs, bait fish patterns, wooly buggers, and beetle patterns. The scenery alone is worth the trip, but if you are fortunate enough to hook one of the lake's monster cutthroat, its once in a lifetime.

I was lucky enough to hook three fish, all on chironmid nymphs. Landed two 6 pounders and lost a 10 pounder. It was a pretty amazing experience and one I would recommend to anyone looking for a unique opportunity and seeking huge trout. The lake has been producing 15 pounders every week. Its home of the World record Cutthroat, which was over 40 lbs. Can't imagine hooking into a monster like that, considering the fight the three fish I hooked gave me.

Attach file:

 small.jpg (85.10 KB)

 smallladder.jpg (35.68 KB)

 smalls.jpg (39.93 KB)

 solo.jpg (88.24 KB)

