I agree it's two months old but it's a topic that takes up too much time in my opinion. If you fish anywhere but in the east the fly you are throwing has a name. It may be named after someone who has put the time into tweaking the fly through trial and error on the stream actually fishing. It may carry the name of the river, stream, area, or hole, guide but it is never named after a dead language. Just my humble opinion.
