

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : The Coloration of Wild Browns in Autumn - Some Thoughts and Observations

Re: The Coloration of Wild Browns in Autumn - Some Thoughts and Observations

Author: : Stenonema

Date: : 2013/11/10 18:11:54

URL:

You are very talented. I have tried to capture the many coloration's of brown trout. Your description does a great job at explaining the complicated array of colors. The amount of lighting and the angle of light reveals a kaleidoscope of colors. The point is the appreciation for the wild brown trout and it's characteristics that make us want to view one more in hand. I never get tired of looking at them and obviously you feel the same. I have also noticed the early spring silver coloration they take on. I have caught browns with blue on the gill plate and chrome. I find this seasonal coloration also interesting. however less discussed. Thanks for posting. I do not have any advice, I believe that you have done a fantastic job at duplicating the fall coloration.