

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : The Coloration of Wild Browns in Autumn - Some Thoughts and Observations

Re: The Coloration of Wild Browns in Autumn - Some Thoughts and Observations

Author: : Chaz

Date: : 2013/11/11 8:49:15

URL:

Great artwork Dave.

When I catch browns I don't see much change of color from different seasons, and I catch a lot of browns. They either have a lot of color or they are very silvery. In NC Pa there is little variation from one stream to the next and the colors are pretty good, this I believe is because they've been in NCPA since the beginning of stocking and so have the more natural colors of the fish in Germany.

The Scottish fish look more like LL Salmon, they are very silvery and have larger spots. You just don't find those fish up north.