

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : The Coloration of Wild Browns in Autumn - Some Thoughts and Observations

Re: The Coloration of Wild Browns in Autumn - Some Thoughts and Observations

Author: : LongWader

Date: : 2013/11/11 9:49:43

URL:

My experience is similar to Chaz. The German browns often have the gold, orange, red, and sometimes even purple/violet hues and the Scottish browns with their larger black spots are often more brown to silver in color. With all the different strains and hybrids you get some very interesting color variations. Our local German strain wild browns are often sport deep a gold color with additional orange and red colors with an overall purple cast to them. Some of the males look almost black in the water.