

Subject: : Warm Water & Salt Water Fly-Fishing

Topic: : TIGHT CLAN

Re: TIGHT CLAN

Author: : evofly

Date: : 2013/11/13 11:59:06

URL:

Salt fishing is a WHOLE different animal than freshwater. When I first started out I found it extremely frustrating just trying to get any info out of anybody. I just said screw it and hit the beach as much as I could. With the time I've put in I've learned it the hard way but, my way.

Marc and I fish a lot together and have started to dial in some areas but, its still tough. Either one of us will be happy to lend you a hand. We are just not going to go posting all of our hard earned info on here (or anywhere else for that matter) for those that just lurk to grab that info. Than next time we go fishing we'll find 20 guys at those spots.

I've found most guys jetty jumping will help you out if you ask but, most are just there throwing meat and hoping something bites. The guys you want to talk to are the guys fishing at night (through the night sometimes) like Marc and I. There is a reason we fish mostly at night 😊