You know you've been married a long time when your sex life improves with the purchase of a laptop computer.

On to the Topic...I took the old lady fishin once opening day in the mountains, well she was my girlfriend back then...before computers.

Bought her all the gear; hipers ultralight, green creel (she called it her purse) she kept her gum and mints and money in it. About four of us guys all took the gals and dropped them off at the big hole at the park in Cook Forest. We went upstream. But first we gave them all a container or two of maggots, meal worms, red worms, etc. A quick lesson on baiting the hook and we were off. My wife had a purple pair of leather gloves that she used to handle the bait.

When we got back and asked how they did, obviously they had caught nothing, my wife was furious. I said whats wrong, She said you left us down here for hours. Then she said, you know a guy was catching a bunch of fish right over there and guess on what?. I said I don;t know. She said Velveeta Cheese!. Vel-F'n-Veeta cheese. You had me handling maggots and worms and I coulda used Cheese!

She never went agin.

Mission accomplished! Now when I come home from fishing there is a warm meal ready for me. If its too late I have to settle for hot tongue and cold shoulder for dinner.
