

Subject: : Conservation

Topic: : Felt Soles or NOT?

Re: Felt Soles or NOT?

Author: : albatross

Date: : 2008/9/23 10:11:04

URL:

I'm using the Korkers Studded Rubber soles right now. I'm satisfied that I'm not losing much in terms of traction. I'm happy that I'm less likely to have invasive species hitching a ride in my boot soles. I don't believe there is a better sole for navigating muddy stream banks or rotting wood.

I think studded felt would be a little better traction overall, but would have the downside of invasive species and snow accumulation.

You should get a pair Mo! Just be careful about the first generation vs second generation issue, the soles are not compatible. This sole is available in both 1st and 2nd generation.

Attach file:

 KorkersStuddedRubber.jpg (0.00 KB)