Yellow creek is one of the limestone streams I have yet to fish, and hear that it even has a good green drake hatch, and that the wild trout population is rising pretty well. Do you think that this will be a wild trout only fishery in the near future?

did a survey about that last year....i highly doubt that it will ever not be stocked...the upper portion only gets rainbow trout and the fly area only gets about 600 trout a year, but hey the big browns need to eat right :)
