

---

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : 30" Browns

Re: 30" Browns

Author: : salmonoid

Date: : 2013/11/19 21:29:15

URL:

Quote:

MattBoyer wrote:

Quote:

vcregular wrote:

Hey, it's the fall. I thought by now we'd be seeing some pics of those big boys - 30"ers that reside here in PA! This is the time they should be showing themselves.

http://blog.pennlive.com/pa-sportsman ... est winners for 2012.html

Not exactly pictures, but I think being 1 1/4 inches off is pretty far from laughable. These results are quite typical and repeated annually. My buddy won this contest in the 90's with 29 1/2 inches. I'll get a pic of the mount with a tape next time I get up that way. It's OK to not be that good of a fisherman, we don't judge. No need to lash out or be a troll about it. 😊

Boyer

Interesting that one of the browns and one of the brooks came from WW streams (Swattie and Dusky, respectively). I assume the Conewago reference for the Lightnin' Trout is the stream in Adams County, but the angler's hometown is just downstream from the Conewago in Dauphin County. Or mebbe it was the Dauphin County stream and the fish was a 'bow that swam too close to TMI.