The 3.5 will work but the 4 would be better. I have Meiser and TFO 8 weight switch rods, and the Konic 3.5, the line fits but is a little snug. As for line, I got a custom made scandi line from Steve Godshall, and it is better than any "big" manufacturer's line, IMHO. I use it for everything, salmon, browns, steelhead, it's just a great line.

Invest in a great line for your switch rod and you will love it.

I don't have Steve Godshall's info right now, but if you contact Bob Meiser he will give you Steve's contact info, and his prices are very, very reasonable. I contacted him, told him what rod I was using, what I was using it for, he recommended a line, made it that day, and I had it 2 days later, right in time for my trip to NY.
