I've always had a thing for orvis reels - mostly the battenkill models - and they're still the only kind I own and fish with.

The first couple rods I bought were orvis also. Then I branched out and bought a loomis IMX - which is a great rod.

Several years ago, I decided to get a 4 piece rod for ease of travel.

And I cast an echo carbon model at a local fly shop. And I was quite impressed with it - and it's very modest price tag - and bought it.
