Fish are beautiful.

And I like that you used some WW fish as well - trout get all the glory for looks but there are some striking WW fishes as well. 😊

I couldn't agree more with you, FI. I think that is one of the things that I enjoy most about WW flyfishing. The chance to ponder on the pure beauty of some of the many species of wild fish that can be caught during the WW season is just stunning. I never was able to get a real clear photo of a Green Sunfish yet. I have several photos of them but the quality is just not there. I really want to get one to capture those beautiful orange fins along the belly that the Greenies get. Already looking forward to next summer!
