I am also very happy with my Simms "Guide" boots. I have the vibram soles and put in the cleats (probably about 7 or 8 per boot). The cleats are starting to get pretty worn but I actually like them better that way. When they are brand new and you try to walk on any rocks ... be careful! It's kind of like "surf's up" when those things are totally new on the rocks. Overall Simms makes a great boot and I am pretty sure they are made in the USA at least they were back when I bought mine.
