

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : types of beads and where you get them?

Re: types of beads and where you get them?

Author: : hammertime

Date: : 2013/11/23 11:18:33

URL:

Quote:

dsmith1427 wrote:

The sink rate of tungsten is impressive, but does the average person really gain that much with the increased sink rate.

Don

I think that were you'll most appreciate the tungsten is when your fishing small nymphs, say #20-22 zebras on lighter tippet. Messing with those tiny shot is a pain, and wrapping lead on such small hooks really throws the overall appearance of the nymph out of whack.