

---

Subject: : Paflyfish General Forum

Topic: : When is it just fishin' but not "fly" fishin'

Re: When is it just fishin' but not "fly" fishin'

Author: : JackM

Date: : 2013/11/26 11:47:40

URL:

I am as curious about the topic and I am the answers. I think the best determination is what is on the end of the line and secondarily, what kind of equipment you use.

Fur and feathers to imitate any living creature qualifies for the end of line criterion, a rod that uses a thicker/heavier line to carry the "bait" to the target satisfies the other. Forty-foot leaders, where the cast is less than 30 feet, barely qualify as FFing, imo. Likewise, metal blades, live bait and green weenies are a deal-breaker to me. 