Not sure on the fighting butts, but how large do you mean by "large streamers?" Weight wise, not necessarily size or length of the fly. Only reason I ask is that I too bought a 6 weight for the same thing. I like the rod and it does well with most standard streamer stuff for large Trout or Smallies, but it struggles with the heavier, weighted flies I sometimes like to use on the bottom for Smallies...heavily weighted crayfish and the like. I'm now considering purchasing an 8wt for this application. May not apply to what you're thinking of using the rod for, just thought it was worth mentioning given my experience.
