I don't know much but my impression is that snook leave the salt and move up into the canals to winter over. The 'Glades start just west of Sunrise in Broward and I've read/heard that there is good canal fishing over that way, although there is water everywhere you look. As was said, watch for gators. I had the hell scared out of me on the Middle River when I climbed over a bridge railing into an overgrown vacant lot on the water and iguanas exploded out of the grass.
