I have worn felt soles for years and don't apologize for it. I am carefull about wading new waters; know which streams carry didymo; and sun dry my felts between trips. I suspect (as mentioned in previous threads) that it's inevitable that this ban will eventually be put in place, just like an eventual ban on lead sinkers. The invasives will continue to spread, maybe a bit more slowly, but they'll spread and we'll be slipping on the didymo and getting snails embedded in our butts.
