You hit the nail on the head regarding my apprehension: I just don't want to get people involved for a false alarm. I spoke with a TU member who I revere and he thinks the town municipalities did it, which may or may not have given them the authority to do so. Even if this is the case, I still suspect they did too much.

This is an experience to say the least. It makes me wish I took more pictures of the stream as it was. I'm going to try to upload the only picture I took of the damage.

By the way, thank you everyone.
