In the early 1970s, pre-indicator nymphing, most of us were fishing with Fenwick fiberglass rods that were only 7 or 7 1/2 feet long.

I'm not sure you could call that "high sticking" with such short fly rods.

Much of the nymphing we did was not "high sticking" or "short lining."

We often made medium or even long casts and drifts. But just without an indicator. (Some of stubborn types still fish this way.)
