ha! I have rods that are over 60 years old that are great rods!

And some of my faves are over 20 years old!

a good rod is a good rod, regardless of vintage.

I take pride in being cheap, well, maybe not as cheap as some guys I know, but cheap none the less. Anytime I desire a new rod, I wait till I can get the blank I want for a good price, then build it up myself, saving even more money.

as for reels, I usually hit flea markets, but I HAVE bought some new ones, although never paid full price.

I just love being a cheapskate, it lets me drink better beer!
