I have a thought: let Mother Nature determine the characteristics of the creek.

So your ready to stop stocking wild trout streams jack? 😊

Basically my concern is just beacuse it is a small creek and it never had chubs before this. As you guys think, it might not be a problem. I just wondered what your imput was because I have never thought about it before or seen this situation before. It would be nice to hear what Mike K has to say on the subject. I might just give him a ring.

P.S. I did send the big chubs flying 🎯 But rather than a backcast it was more like a fast ball.
