There is much more public water upstream of analomink than most know about. A few clubs and farms have sold out, just got to do your research as these spots are still relatively untouched and the 20 inch trout still relatively stupid. Lots of natives and lots of pig club trout upstream.

Chaz offered up one spot. Do your research and you'll get the details. Just watch my turtle lines in there please during the summer.

If you really want a thrill, fish it the week before opening day and watch all the old club fools come down and harass the snot out of you "can't be fishin in here until Saturday". Then hand them your phone. What fun. They absolutely can't stand the public in there poking their fish.

Paradise has some public water as well upstream of analomink, but that takes a ton of research to find - think tax maps and foreclosure lists.....A lot more wild fish here than in the brod head though.
