Eunan, you might be the only one with any insight on mixed wings, but if anyone else has any experience with them, please join in.

So, what's the deal with them? I've read Kelson's description of them and it was confusing to me. I have no desire (for now) to tie built wing flies. Just the sourcing of the feathers makes me dizzy. But mixed wings seem as if they'd be a bit less stressful to achieve and I wouldn't mind as much fishing (ruining) them. Is there a good source of info on them? I find them quite attractive, even more so under water. Id like to learn about them.

Thanks!
