Great fly to share! I really like including cdc on a number of patterns, especially caddis pupa. The material is a special one and gives some extra movement in the current. I typically will either place the cdc in a dubbing loop or simply attach it by the tips. I tend to only make a couple turns of the cdc, but I am in the "less is more" camp a lot when it comes to using most materials.

Thanks again for sharing,

Tim
