

Subject: : Gear Talk

Topic: : Framed Pontoon Help...

Re: Framed Pontoon Help...

Author: : TDB

Date: : 2014/1/21 17:23:09

URL:

Yes, I can stand no problem - however, how Scadden rigs the frameless 2 man is genius. You sit up high in the front and it makes fishing almost as good as standing up, and WAY more comfy. Trust me, we have 2 hard drift boats which are the ticket, but for smaller streams, access issues, etc that frameless Excalibur XX has been unbelievably effective... I've owned and fished out of other framed models. I can't even say that they are more sturdy. I've found the frame to tangle line, they are heavy, don't respond well to rowing in tough conditions, and are a nightmare to put together at times. Again, for my $ I'd go with a hard boat hands down, but I really am impressed with the Scadden 2 man