There's a handful of guys on here who own the Ichthus reel, and the ITB rod is still in it's prototype stage but dubhethorax is currently testing one for us. Hopefully we will have some stock in a few sizes of them before the Spring season starts and add a few more sizes as the year goes along. We're only making a few minor changes to the production model from the prototype. Nothing material. I'm sure some people will chime in with their opinions.
