

Subject: : Fly Tying

Topic: : late winter/spring flies

Re: late winter/spring flies

Author: : Heritage-Angler

Date: : 2014/1/22 12:11:05

URL:

Don't forget caddis dries. I've often run into early caddis hatches in that time frame.

My favorite fly, the cdc and elk is a great fly to have when the fish start looking up.

In sz 12 and 14, it also makes a dandy early brown stonefly imitation.

These two bugs often skitter across the surface, so having a perfect drag free drift isn't always necessary, or even preferred.