Agreed,

Now having a little more use out of mine. Yes, they are better. The polarization is better, the clarity is better, contrast is better, etc. Now, I have a glass lensed version. It may be that this is just the first glass lensed sunglasses I've ever had, and I can't speak for Costa's plastic lenses.

But I'm not sure that they're $200+ better if you get my drift. Just not sure that objectively, ANY sunglasses are worth that.

It seems that despite my reluctance to become a walking catalog, I now have a whole bunch of super high end equipment. Simms guide boots, G3 waders, costa glasses, a top end bamboo rod. My god, what have I become!!! A fool and his money....
