
Subject: : Beginner Forum

Topic: : Some Tying Questions to Get Me Started ...

Re: Some Tying Questions to Get Me Started ...

Author: : FrequentTyer

Date: : 2014/1/31 22:01:31

URL:

Quote:

Stagger_Lee wrote:

Thanks guys

Mike .. I've been dubbing from back to front but then just a quick wrap to secure it and not sure why. Will just tie off @ end! Thanks again .. much appreciated

Ah, so you are counter wrapping over the dubbing. That's not necessary, but if you want to do it you could try leaving a long tag of thread at the back and then winding forward over the body. You are doing great. It takes time to develop the techniques to make the process simpler and at the same time make the fly durable. The good news is that those techniques get used on most patterns, so eventually your just learning to work with different materials.

Mike.