Nice flies Bluesteel and welcome to our online community - glad to have yuh.

The rattles can't hurt anything (I suppose). I know some bass guys swear by rattles but I don't know if folks in the muskie community have any thoughts on their effectiveness. You'll just have to try 'em out and let us know.

Thanks. I'm certainly going to fish the flies with rattles, but since im a newb at FFing for musky it will probably take me a few seasons to collect some data on their effectiveness lol.

I just received an order from J Stockard. I gambled on buying a few bucktails at a discounted price. On the coment section when I placed the order I asked them to pick decent bucktails with long fibers. 3 out of 4 of them were pretty good (better then what I've seen in the local shop). The other was pretty hollow, but regardless I'm gonna tie some new flies in new flavors.
